through C) at Fedde Academy. Structures A, B, northeastern side of the campus. The carports wou and beams supporting array panels. Structures A with direct current (DC) system size of 98.700 kill modules with 69.300 kW, respectively, all tilted at of 530 PV modules and the total DC system size installed by directional borings from the solar arrabox. A second point of interconnection is provided have not been installed to this point of interconnecinstallation of car chargers in the future. However	colar energy arrays on three carport structures (Structures A and C would be located on an existing parking lot on the ald be a minimum of 13-foot high and consist of metal column A, B, and C would each have 235 photo-voltaic (PV) module lowatts (kW), 130 PV modules with 54.600 kW, and 165 PV a 7-degree angle. Therefore, there would be a combined total of 222.600 kW. Approximately 291 feet of conduit would be any through the parking lot to an existing electrical equipment on the southwestern corner of the campus. However, conduit action. The project would also provide underground conduit for the compusition of car chargers require additional funding and general community will benefit from a reduction in energy
